For Forty-Eight Hours Hazel Hill Man Defies Railway Company.

If your competitors are making INVOKES LAW AFTER VIGIL.

Restraining Corporation From Grading Right of Way Through His Property.

For forty-eight hours Henry Chapman of Hazel Hill, St. Louis County, stood guard with a shotgun to prevent the St. Louis Belt and Terminal Railway Company from entering his property for gradng purposes.

Wearying of the long vigil yesterday he invoked the restraining power of the law and asked Judge McElhinney for a temporary injunction. The writ was issued. Chapman, with several relatives of the same name, who are copetitioners in the prayer for relief, own seventy acres of valuable land in Hazel Hill, a suburb jus west of the city limits on the county Page avenue division of the United Railways Company.

The railway company has been grading in the neighborhood for a right of way and threatened, he alleges, to enter his land for the same purpose, even before any condemnation proceedings were instituted.

Chapman thought the gradere were about to invade his place. Hastening to the fence with a double-barreled shotgun, he stood guard and continued on sentry duty until yesterday morning, claiming the vigilance was necessary. No attempt was made to enter the place while he maintained his belligerency.

Judge McElhinney issued an order to the defendant to appear on December 3 and show cause why the writ should not be made permanent.

Special Panel of 200 Talesmen Is Drawn, and Second Attempt at Trial Will Begin Monday.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Nov. 28 .- Everything that had been done in the trial of Nan Patterson, who is accused of the murder of Frank T. Young, was undone this morning, when Judge Davis, in the Supreme Court, discharged the eleven jurors and ordered a new trial. This course was necessary because of the iliness of Ed-ward J. Dressler, one of the jury, who was stricken by cerebral apoplexy Friday. The new trial will be begun next Monday, and a special panel of 200 talesmen, from whom the twelve new jurors will be selected, was drawn to-day.

The report of Dressler's physician, which was made at the opening of court o-day, that the juror was in no condition to return to his duties, left Justice Davis no alternative but to discharge the jury. Miss Patterson appeared much dejected as she was led back to the Tombs to await the beginning of the new trial. Members of the jury who were seen after their discharge shid that they had formed no definite opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, as the case had not proceeded far enough. The illness of Juror Dressler, resulting in a mistrial, has revived talk among lawyers of a proposed amendment to the State Constitution providing that the Presiding Judge in a civil or criminal case may order one or more additional jurors sworn, who shall attend during the trial, and in case of the death, disability or disqualification of any juror, one or more of the additional jurors shall be substituted. as she was led back to the Tombs to This would obviate the dismissal of an entire jury because of the illness of one member.

The petition states that since the close of the St. Louis Sanitary Works the Mayer plant has been handling dead horses, with the result that the "unbearable odor" has menaced the health and peace of the neighborhood. It is said that the water running from the plant also gives off an offensive odor and that it is so permeating that even closed doors and windows are futile.

Teh Mayor and sanitary officers have promised to investigate, and some action may be taken at the meeting of the Board of Health to-morrow. Only a short time ago a North Side reduction works was declared a nuisance by the board on the same grounds.
